The Dawn of Peace

Put off, put off your mail, O kings,
And beat your brands to dust!
Your hands must learn a surer grasp,
Your hearts a better trust.

Oh, bend aback the lance's point,
And break the helmet bar!
A noise is in the morning wind,
But not the note of war.

Upon the grassy mountain paths
The glittering hosts increase—
They come! They come! How fair their feet!
They come who publish peace.

And victory, fair victory,
Our enemies are ours
For all the clouds are clasped in light,
And all the earth with flowers.

Aye, still depressed and dim with dew;
But wait a little while,
And with the radiant deathless rose
The wilderness shall smile.

And every tender, living thing
Shall feed by streams of rest;
Nor lamb shall from the flock be lost,
Nor nursing from the nest.

—John Ruskin.

CICELY'S VENTURE.

"I say 'No,'" said Mrs. Cynthia Hamlin, "and when I say no, you know what that means, Cicely." Mrs. Hamlin's tone was severe, and her face was as hard and cold as if it had been cut from stone.

Any one but Cicely would have been silenced at once, but that young lady was not easily crushed. After the first despairing look, and retreating step, she returned to the attack with singular persistency.

"But why do you say no, Aunt Cynthia?"

Mrs. Hamlin fairly glared at her and tightened her grasp upon her gold-handled cane. That Cicely should dare to question her!

"Why, why," she repeated, her black eyes snapping, "I don't know that I am under obligations to render an accounting to you. Why, indeed! Is it not enough that I say no?"

Cicely looked calmly at her relative.

"No, Aunt Cynthia, it isn't," she said. "I had set my heart upon going to Victoria Crossman's dance, and if you deprive me of that pleasure, surely I should know why. You like Victoria, the affair will be informal, and I will come home early."

"Victoria is too forward; you are nothing but chits of girls, both of you," replied her aunt. "I do not approve of dances; and while I shall be obliged to place you in society, later, I do not intend to hasten the evil day."

Cicely was thoughtful for a moment. She knew that her aunt's refusal had underlying a motive that she had not yet guessed.

What was her strongest trait? What was it that always governed her acts? Why was she so determined that Cicely should not attend this dance?

"Besides you have no suitable gown, and I'm not going to throw my money away on party dresses now," said Mrs. Hamlin, and the mystery was solved.

Cicely knew that her aunt was notoriously close in money matters. The plain furnishings of the house, the lack of luxuries and pleasures, the cutting down of every expense not actually necessary, all confirmed the opinions of the neighbors.

She had taken her orphaned niece into her home, educated her and intended to present her to society some day; but for the present it suited her to regard Cicely as a mere child who should be contented to eat, sleep, study and play.

So long as Cicely was a child, she did not object to her aunt's plans. But lately she had shown a rebellious spirit.

Only one week ago she had twisted up her floating, yellow curls, and nothing but a threat to cut them off on the part of Mrs. Hamlin had brought them down again.

Then she had lengthened her best gown, and put her aunt to the trouble of "running the tucks in" again.

That best gown was only a pink-sprigged chalice. After all, she could not wear that to the dance.

As she stood there Cicely thought over her stock of dresses, scant woollens and plain gingham and lawns, and her face grew sober. "You're right, Aunt Cynthia," she said. "I would have to have a new dress. You'd let me go then, if I had something to wear."

"I didn't say so."

"But that's your chief objection, isn't it—the expense of a party dress?"

"What a persistent child you are," snapped Mrs. Hamlin. "You haven't a party dress, and I won't buy one and you can't borrow, so that settles it."

Cicely turned on her heel with tearful eyes and mutinous lips.

"I wish I had some money of my own," she said.

"Earn it," retorted her aunt.

The young girl paused on the threshold. A sudden thought had come to her, so bold, so daring that it nearly took her breath away.

"If I did, could I go?" she asked, her voice trembling with suppressed excitement.

"Oh, yes," said Mrs. Hamlin, sarcastically, weary of the dispute. "Earn your dress and you can wear it. And now go, Cicely, and not another word upon this subject. I forbid it. And send Julie to me."

Cicely sent the maid to her aunt and went to her own room.

There she spread out a newspaper and ran her eyes over the columns, finding at last the few lines that she had previously read and remembered.

"Wanted—A young girl to sit for artist for study of head; piquant blonde preferred. Liberal pay. Edmonston, 93 Terrace Avenue."

"Piquant! that's just what Victoria said I was," reflected Cicely. "I wonder if I could? Let me see—I go into town every other day now until the concert, and I don't care whether I play or not. I'd rather attend Victoria's dance. If Julie will only help me."

With a little trouble Cicely succeeded in enlisting the services of the maid. "Edmonston" of 93 Terrace Avenue was visited, and so it chanced that while Mrs. Hamlin thought her niece was practicing music at the conservatory, that young lady, with her maid, was spending the time in a studio of a successful young artist, and the sweet, spirited face of the last descendant of the Hamlin family was being transferred to canvases.

The night of Victoria Crossman's dance arrived, and Mrs. Cynthia Hamlin, seated in her easy-chair, heard a series of quick raps upon her door.

The next moment Cicely came in, Cicely, with her hair twisted up on her dainty head and the soft folds of a white China silk gown falling to her slender ankles. Cicely, with white, high-heeled slippers and white gloves, and her soft, bare throat rising from a ruffle of lace.

"What's this?" gasped the elderly lady, staring at the astonishing vision.

"This is my party dress," replied Cicely demurely. "I earned it myself, Aunt Cynthia. You know," she went on, before the elder lady could speak, "you gave me permission to go to the dance and wear a new gown if I could earn it."

"But where? how?" asked Mrs. Hamlin, who had entirely forgotten the whole affair. "Are you talking about Victoria Crossman's party? Yes, I did say so, but I didn't expect this result. What have you done, Cicely?"

The young lady stepped nearer, looking so fair in the soft light that even her aunt was moved to admiration. She realized then that the child was fast budding into beautiful womanhood. She had shut her eyes to it so long, but now the truth was forced upon her.

"Dear aunt," said Cicely, softly, "I have earned my dress and the right to wear it fairly. It is a long story, and if you don't mind I will wait until to-morrow to tell it to you. May I go to the dance now? Julie is ready to accompany me."

Mrs. Hamlin looked severely at the slender, white-robed figure an instant. The eager, innocent face disarmed her of all suspicion.

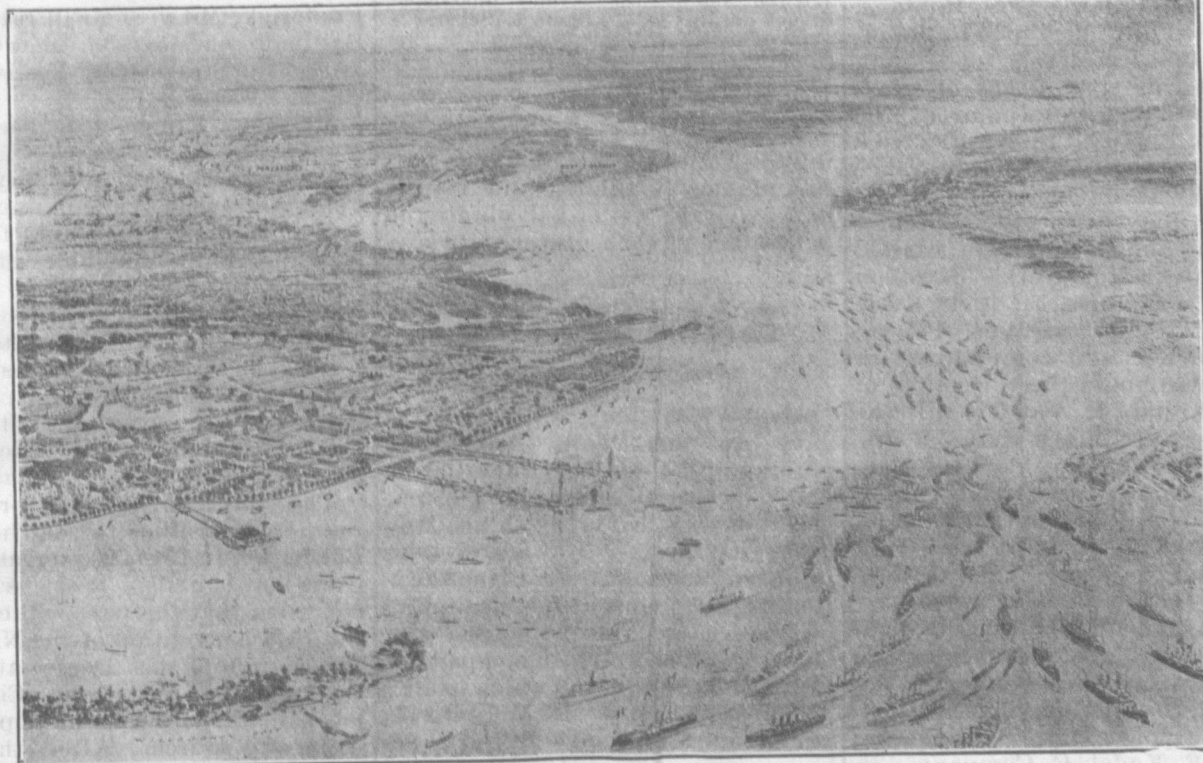

Whatever Cicely had done, she must have been fair and honest. "You have taken advantage of me," she muttered, "but I believe you, Cicely. I never went back on my word yet, and I won't now, but I must say I disapprove of the whole thing."

Cicely fluttered across the room and dropped a kiss upon the uncompromising face. Then she was gone, and Mrs. Cynthia Hamlin was left alone with her reflections.

That was a wonderful night for Cicely. She danced to her heart's content, she was courted and flattered in a way that might have turned an older, wiser head than hers.

She was the belle of the evening, and when, after it was all over and Julie had wrapped her up in soft shawls and taken her home and she sat in her own room, she turned and smiled at herself in the mirror.

BIRDS' EYE VIEW OF JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION.

"Child indeed, Aunt Cynthia! No, not after to-night, Miss Cicely Hamlin."

In the morning, directly after breakfast, Cicely sought her aunt.

"I want to tell you about my dress," she said. "You may be displeased, Aunt Cynthia, but you told me to earn it and I had no other way. When I went into town with Julie I did not go to the conservatory. I have been sitting for an artist, and he painted a splendid picture of me and paid me liberally."

"Cicely Hamlin!" exclaimed the elderly lady, sitting upright, with a tighter grip upon her cane, and consternation upon every feature.

"I am sorry to disappoint you about the music lessons, but you told me not to mention the subject again, and—"

"And you knew I'd quickly put a stop to such proceedings. Sitting for an artist! I'm ashamed of you! Who is he? What is he going to do with your picture?"

"Send it to the annual exhibition."

"What! your portrait hung in a public place for the common crowd to gaze at?" cried Mrs. Hamlin. "You a descendant of the Hamlins, to make your face so common?"

"Oh, Aunt Cynthia," exclaimed Cicely. "I didn't think you'd mind that. And really the picture would not be taken for my likeness; it's fancy, and so much prettier, it only looks something like me."

"Who is this artist, who is he?" asked her relative, striking her cane upon the floor. "Send for him at once. I must see him and have an understanding with him. Send at once. This is an outrageous affair! Send Julie to me."

Never had Cicely seen her aunt so enraged, so excited. Her wrath seemed out of reason with the offense, but silently she did as was told. Mrs. Hamlin refused to see her until "Edmonston, of 93 Terrace Avenue," arrived.

Erect and severe in her velvet-backed chair, the indignant lady faced her niece and the artist.

As she proceeded with her complaint, she somehow felt her wrath subside. The artist's appearance, his deferential courtesy and bland replies, reassured her.

She looked at him sharply as he sat there in the afternoon glow, dark, patrician and self-possessed. His brown eyes met hers steadily, his voice was agreeable as he said:

"I am sorry that I have been the unwitting cause of your displeasure, Mrs. Hamlin. I desired a subject, and when your niece came to me, I engaged her without knowledge of the circumstances. I am well known in artistic and social

IRENE'S DISCOVERY.

Irene Wells when a child lost her mother, and an aunt begged the care of her for a few years. Irene's father was a busy doctor in a country town, and as he never married again, Irene stayed with her aunt until she was eighteen years old. Then, as her father's housekeeper detained here ever since. I have had some delightful talks with her, and I will ask her to let you call this evening; she is by no means stupid, I can assure you."

"No, indeed," cried Irene. "How I should love to meet her! I never knew an author in private life," and then she thought, "Perhaps she will tell me how she began, and give me suggestions how to write a novel," for deep down in Irene's heart was the hope that she would some day write a book which would make her famous.

Dr. Wells called that morning on his distinguished patient, and perhaps gave her a hint of Irene's state of mind, for the lady, who greatly liked and admired her physician, invited him to bring Irene, and leave her to spend that evening.

How the young girl's heart fluttered when she first met the gentle responsive lady who stood for all that seemed to Irene most to be desired! She was not "common"; before middle age she had attained fame. They talked first of indifferent things, and then the lady said that, if she must be ill at all, she was very glad that it was with a malady which left her head clear so that she had been able to write every day, but most of all she was grateful to Dr. Wells, who had treated her so skillfully and proved so interesting a friend.

"Do you know, Miss Wells, that your father took me for a ten-mile drive this afternoon while he visited his country patients? When he was in the house I sat in the carriage and scribbled; then as we drove about, he talked to me of them. He seemed to know every man, woman and child within a circuit of twenty-five miles. What a grand life a good doctor leads! How many chances he has to do good. He gets so close to people."

"Yes, I suppose it is so. I know that people are always coming to my father with troubles of mind as well as with those of the body. But you say that you were writing. I should like so much to know how you compose—how you imagine the people in your stories; they seem so like real life."

Mrs. H—L—did not answer directly, but exclaimed: "What novels your father might write if he had the time! He gave me so many ideas this afternoon, told me of so many interesting characters here, that I longed to stay a month and get to know the people; but then people are always so interesting to me everywhere. Miss Wells, if by any chance you have the desire and ability to write stories, what a suggestive place you live in, and what a wealth of material is all around you here."

"I do not quite understand; the people here—why, they are the stupidest and most uninteresting of mortals, it seems to me."

"My dear girl, I am sure you are making a mistake. There is a Persian rhyme that says:

Diving and finding no pearls in the sea,
Blame not the ocean—the fault is in thee.

"Don't you like people just because they are human? Don't their different temperaments and their peculiarities interest you? When their faces show joy or grief, don't you find yourself wondering what lies behind that expression?"

"Not unless I know and like the people already."

"What made Shakespeare Shakespeare, do you think?"

"Why, he had a marvelous imagination and a wonderful gift of expression—and everything else that goes to make up genius."

"True, but the one thing that made him the master story-teller of all the ages was his sympathetic insight into the workings of all men's minds. And it was largely the common people whom he studied, for he lived among them. I imagine that he could never be left five minutes with a human being without finding that person interesting and suggestive."

"It was so with Dickens and with other writers of fiction. To day as we rode past little cottages and by great farm-houses, your father talked of the people who lived there—such tragedies, such comedies in life! and again such heroes! such saints! and such a host, too, of quaint characters as he knows! Why, I filled my notebook to overflowing with types which I can use hereafter in stories; but even as I did it, I was half ashamed to be studying human nature for a purpose so much less noble than your father's purpose. I try to teach what is good and worthy of imitation, but your father enters into these lives for such help to body and mind."

Irene was much puzzled by the turn the talk had taken; but she was more surprised when the lady asked, "Do you know Janet Gray?"

"By sight. She is a plain girl, who never says much."

"But she is the heroine of a story exquisitely beautiful—get your father to tell it to you. And that Helen Nelson, in the little tumble-down cottage, do you know her?"

"She never attracted me."

"She is very poor, but your father says if she had not told the truth to the minutest detail in a lawsuit, where she might easily have kept back certain proof, she would have come into a large fortune, with the fine house on the hill. Against the wishes of her lover she told all, and he left her in consequence. She seems to be as much of a heroine as Scott's 'Jeanne Deans.'"

Irene realized that she was dull and not the people about her; she had been told that if once she met them as her father met them, heart to heart, she would find them interesting, lovable and suggestive. From that night she tried to do this, and her discontent vanished like fog before sunshine. She never wrote a great novel, but she did better: She lived a happy, helpful life, beloved by her neighbors and by all who came in contact with her. The girl who finds herself at odds with her surroundings, who finds no congenial souls around her, too often needs not to change her environment, but to realize her own dullness and her self-absorption.—Good Cheer.

HUMAN HAIR IMBEDDED IN OAK.

GREENFIELD, IND., Saturday.—After four two inch boards had been taken off an oak log at James Webb's sawmill, a walnut peg, an inch in diameter and a foot long, was found, which reached the heart of the big log, where, it is estimated, it had been driven probably seventy-five years ago. At the end of the peg was a coil of black hair, long and silken.

Old people of the neighborhood are of the opinion that the coil of hair was placed there in accordance with a prevalent custom of pioneer times. This custom provided that when a man and wife could not get along or agree, instead of separating, as in these days, the neighbors cut a lock of hair from the head of each. A hole was then bored in a thrifty tree and the locks of hair were driven to the heart by a walnut pin. After that it was believed the couple would live happily ever after.

CABLED news to the metropolitan dailies announce that the Douglas Robinsons are all the rage in the circles of royalty and nobility in England.

To most of the deaf, this announcement will perhaps have no significance, but their interest will be enlisted when they know of the peculiar connection of this family with the New York Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb, at Washington Heights, New York City, widely known as the "Fanwood School."

As a matter of fact, the Institution derives its name of "Fanwood" from the elder Mrs. Douglas Robinson, who was in her girlhood days known as Fannie Monroe, daughter of Col. James Monroe, who in turn was a cousin of President James Monroe. Fannie Monroe lived in the Mansion House, which in after years, and for considerably more than a quarter of a century, was used for the purposes of boys' kindergarten. The property was named "Fanwood," by Col. Monroe, in honor of his daughter. Miss Fannie Monroe married Mr. Douglas Robinson, and their son, named after his father, is married to a sister of President Roosevelt.

A few years ago, a handsome and refined little lady, with silvery hair and manners of gentle sweetness, visited the New York Institution, and went through every part of the Mansion House with Principal Currier. She pointed out a pane of glass whereon, with a diamond, she had written her name—Fannie Monroe—a half a century ago, and was more than gratified when Principal Currier sent for the glazier and had the pane cut out and presented to her.

In olden days the Mansion House was the scene of numberless functions in which aristocratic gayety was promoted and indulged in, with the father of Fannie Monroe as host. At that time the city did not extend above Bleeker Street, and it was quite a custom—as related by Mrs. Douglas Robinson, Sr., on her last visit to the Mansion House—for great coaches filled with gallant gentlemen and beauteous young ladies, with liveried coachmen, outriders and postillions, their approach being announced by the winding horn, to come galloping up from the city for a night of dancing, feasting and social enjoyment.

FOUNDER'S DAY will be celebrated at the Gallaudet Home for Aged and Infirm Deaf Mutes on Saturday, the 1st of June. The birthday of the late Rev. Dr. Thomas Gallaudet, by whom the Home was founded, occurs on Monday, June 3d, but the Home management believes that Saturday would be the most convenient day for those who have to travel from any considerable distance, and therefore have made Saturday the day for the celebration. There will be addresses by prominent people present, and an enjoyable time is anticipated on the spacious lawn that fronts the Home.

A Flattering Illusion.

I thank you for the flowers you sent, she said,
And then she pouted, blushed, and dropped her head.
Forgive me for the words I spoke last night;
The flowers have sweetly proved that you are right.
Then I forgave her, took her hand in mine,
Sealed her forgiveness with the old, old sign;
And as we wandered through the dim-lit bowers,
I wondered who had really sent the flowers.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO., May 13, 1907.

The following amendments to the Constitution and By-Laws of the National Association of the Deaf have been submitted to me in writing, have been duly seconded and are herewith published in accordance with Article VIII, of the Constitution, relating to amendments. They will come up for discussion and action at the sessions of the coming Convention of the Association, at Norfolk, July 4th, 5th, and 6th next.

G. W. VEDITZ, President.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO., May 2, 1907.
MR. G. W. VEDITZ, President of the National Association of the Deaf,
Colorado Springs, Col.

DEAR SIR:—As the work of a convention consists of the actual business accomplished, and as this business is according to program prepared by the officers in charge of the Association at the official opening of the convention, and as said officers are therefore most familiar with said business program and its aims and purpose, I move that Section 2, Article III, of the Constitution, which reads:

"The officers of the Association shall be elected by ballot on the first day of the Convention by a majority vote of all duly qualified members voting at the permanent organization of each National Convention of the Association, be amended so as to read:

"The officers of the Association shall be elected separately by ballot, on the last day of the Convention, by a majority vote of all duly qualified members voting at the permanent organization of each National Convention of the Association."

Respectfully,
BESSIE B. VEDITZ,
Member of the Association in good standing from Colorado.

I hereby second this proposed amendment.

J. L. SMITH.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO., May 2, 1907.
MR. G. W. VEDITZ, President National Association of the Deaf,
Colorado Springs, Col.

DEAR SIR:—I move that Article IV of the By-Laws relating to the Local Committee be amended by the addition of a second section to read as follows:

Section 2. The Chairman of the Executive Committee shall be ex-officio a member of the Local Committee. Said Local Committee shall not enter into contracts involving expenditures or concerns not directly connected with the reception and entertainment of members and guests of the convention, without first submitting the bids for said contracts to the Chairman of the Executive Committee, as its representative, for approval, withholding of said approval being equivalent to a rejection of said bids.

This amendment embodies a resolution adopted at the Seventh Convention, but as a resolution is binding only upon the Convention and its officers by which it was adopted, I herewith move its incorporation as specified in the By-Laws.

Respectfully,
BESSIE B. VEDITZ,
Member of the Association in good standing from Colorado.

I hereby second this proposed amendment.

J. L. SMITH.

FARIBAULT, MINN., May 9, 1907.
MR. G. W. VEDITZ, President National Association of the Deaf:

DEAR SIR:—I herewith move that Sec. 1 of Article V of the Constitution, relating to the appointment of the National Executive Committee be amended to read as follows:

"The National Executive Committee shall consist of the President of the Association who shall be ex-officio Chairman, and eight other members, to be appointed by the President from the general membership of the Association, provided, however, that no State shall have more than one member of the Committee assigned to it."

Moreover, as above amendment renders Sec. 2, Article V, unnecessary, I move that section be stricken from the Constitution.

Respectfully,
BESSIE B. VEDITZ,
Member in good standing of the Association from Colorado.

I second this proposed amendment.

J. L. SMITH.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO., May 9, 1907.
MR. G. W. VEDITZ, President National Association of the Deaf,
Colorado Springs, Col.

DEAR SIR:—I herewith move to amend Section 3, Article V, of the Constitution by inserting after the sentence: "It shall have power to appropriate any available funds of the Association for purposes tending to promote its welfare," the following clause: "No expenditures not directly authorized by the Association in Convention shall be made without its consent."

Respectfully,
BESSIE B. VEDITZ,
Member in good standing of the Association from Colorado.

I hereby second this proposed amendment.

Annual Meeting of the Directors.

THE MEDALS WINNERS.

The Two Base Ball Teams Play a Game.

Tuesday, May 21st, known as "Members Day," and on which the annual meeting and election of Officers and Members of the Board of Directors is held, was marked with the customary inspection of the routine work of the school, supplemented by the competition for medals by the Institution corps of cadets.

The annual meeting of Life Members resulted in the election of the following:—

Officers of the Board of Directors—Charles Augustus Stoddard, President; Morris K. Jesup, 1st Vice-President; John T. Terry, 2nd Vice-President; Thatcher M. Adams, Secretary.

Directors (to serve until the third Tuesday of May, 1910)—Hewlett Scudder, Charles Augustus Stoddard, Everett Herrick, Thomas N. Cuthbert, Julian W. Robbins, James B. Ford, Mortimer L. Schiff, Stuart Duncan.

In their natty uniforms of grey, with white belts and gloves, the Cadets of the Institution presented a strikingly neat and alert appearance when they assembled on the parade ground and came to "present arms" as the colors were carried past the long front of the Battalion of three companies, the Field Music playing "Auld Lang Syne."

The review and competition for medals was under the direction of Major William H. Van Tassell, the instructor of military tactics at the Institution.

The awards were made under the decision of Brevet Major General George Moore Smith and staff composed of Major Austin, Captain Little, Captain Townsend.

The Archibald D. Russell Gold Medals, for highest proficiency in the School of the Soldier, were awarded to Wm. Aufort, A Company; Leopold Frey, B Company; Walter E. Kadel, C Company.

The Principal's Gold Medal, for the best drill officer, was won by Jacob Lovitch, C Company, and Vernon S. Birk, of A Company, had a bar added to his medal for like success.

The General George Moore Smith Medals, for marked excellence in military drill, were captured by A. Chamowitz and W. E. Staak, A Company; Bruno Dornblut and John F. Koepfer, B Company; Solie Goershanek and Wm. L. Garrison, C Company.

The Field Music Medal, for general excellence in field music, went to Moses Neidenberg.

To this writer, the most impressive and significant feature of the afternoon was when the Field Music played "The Star Spangled Banner." The Battalion was stretched out its long length across the green campus, officers and privates standing at "Parade Rest," and the band playing the last bars of "Retreat." At the end there was an instant's pause, and suddenly the bass drum sent forth a single boom. Like a flash, and with a perceptible snap, the whole line stiffened into "attention" and stood as motionless as statues—patriots in the embryo, who were thrilled with the true American spirit—

"In God we trust;
And the star-spangled banner in triumph
shall wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Owing to the quarantine and also to the fact that they had no game to play with the hearing schools, the Fanwood Regulars made the most of the situation, and played a game with the Fanwood Juniors. It was a good game and both sides did themselves credit. The Juniors were first up at the bat as they were on the Regulars' ground. The positions of the Regulars were the same as last week.

In the first two innings the Juniors got no runs, while the Regulars got one in the first and two in the second. In the third inning, the Juniors managed to shut out the Regulars and at the same time gain a run for themselves.

The fourth and fifth inning gave the Juniors two more zeros to their score, the Regulars getting four runs in the fourth and one in the fifth.

In the sixth, the Juniors again shut out the Regulars and got another run, but that was all they got. The Regulars rallied in the eighth and ninth innings, and got one and four runs respectively. Lux pitched from the first inning until the fifth and did fine work as a pitcher, considering the fact that he is the regular catcher. Nimmo took the box after the fifth inning and also did finely. Both pitchers each struck out five Juniors. Lovitch was up to his usual average as short stop, and Wells, second baseman, also one of those who did their best to keep the Juniors down. Tanzas, first base, did some jumping work, and prevented many a ball from being missed. There was scarcely any outfield work to be done, but the Regulars gave the Juniors' outfield work to do by their hitting flies all over the field. The Regulars got ten hits, the Juniors eight. Following is the score by innings and the positions of the players of both teams:

BALTIMORE.

Mr. W. G. Jones, of New York, gave an excellent, descriptive reading of "Othello," in the Parish Hall of Grace Episcopal Church, this city, on Friday evening, May 10th. Over sixty deaf-mutes were in attendance. The greetings extended Mr. Jones at the beginning of the reading were warm and sincere, but nothing in comparison to the congratulations which marked its close. Rev. Mr. Whildin introducing Mr. Jones referred to his appearance before the Baltimore Society of the Deaf over twelve years ago, and of the universal and persistent desire for his re-appearance. He felt sure, he said, that such a long interval would not come between this occasion and the next.

It was a source of great regret to many to find that Mr. Jones was obliged to leave for New York on the midnight train. Mr. Lyman Steed, Principal of the School for the Colored Deaf and Blind, who was present, invited Mr. Jones to visit the School the following day, and to entertain the pupils, but he was unable to accept.

Rev. J. W. Michaels was in Baltimore, Monday and Tuesday, April 29th and 30th. On Monday evening, he held a service in the Sunday School room of the First Baptist Church, and on Tuesday evening he read the story of Poe's "Gold Bug," in the Hall of the Baltimore Society of the Deaf. On the first evening, the attendance was thirty-two, and on the second evening twenty-one. While in the city, Mr. Michaels was the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Whildin, and of Mr. and Mrs. Gallion during one evening.

The recent Punch-Card contest held under the auspices of the local Brotherhood of St. Andrew of Grace Deaf-Mute Mission, netted over $80.00. Mr. T. C. Ruckle won the prize, $15.00; Miss Susie Stern the second prize, $7.00; and Mr. Adolph Bomhoff the third prize, $3.00. A few minors prizes in connection with the contest will be distributed as soon as the Committee can determine who are entitled to them. To Messrs. W. W. Duval, Jr., and Alfred Feast, belong the credit for the very successful management of the affair. They were ably assisted by Messrs. Boss and Krastel.

Forthcoming events:

May 17—Annual Meeting of Grace Guild.
23—Strawberry Festival, Grace Mission.
29—Strawberry Festival, Baltimore Society.
31—Committee Meetings, Grace Mission.
June 29—Annual Picnic, Grace Mission.

Rev. G. F. Flick recently passed all his canonical examinations. It is expected he will be ordained to the Priesthood in the Pro Cathedral of the Ascension, 16th and I Streets, N. W., Washington D. C., on the morning of Trinity Sunday, May 26th. He will be ordained along with several hearing candidates upon that day, it having been found impossible to arrange for a Special Ordination, as in the case of his ordination to the Diaconate last summer. A definite call has been extended to both Rev. Mr. Whildin and Rev. Mr. Flick to retain their relative positions as General Missionary and Assistant Missionary in Maryland, the District of Columbia and the South. At this writing Rev. Mr. Flick is visiting his mother and sister in Cincinnati, O.

A German deaf-mute named Frank Wolnitzek, who says he has a wife and five children, living in Cincinnati, O., claimed damage in the sum of $200 from the United Railways Co. of this city, for injuries he alleges he received in an accident on the Belair Road on the afternoon of April 19th. An investigation instituted proved that Wolnitzek was nowhere near the scene of the accident, and therefore received no injuries at all. His claim was refused. From a talk with Wolnitzek, it appears that he has travelled extensively, having visited Covington, Louisville, Nashville, New Orleans, Chicago, Norfolk, and many other towns. He also asserts that he was robbed several times. After such experience one wonders why he does not return home and settle down to a life of ease in the bosom of his family. But, apparently he has no intention of doing so. Deaf-mute friends, in Baltimore, have done everything possible to help him.

Mr. George A. Gallion is out of employment for the present, owing to the failure of the Insurance Firm with which he was connected. Mr. Gallion is contemplating the sale of his property, and the removal of his family to Perryman, or to some suburban town. We shall be sorry to lose this "most desirable citizen" and his interesting wife and daughters.

Miss A. B. Barry is visiting in Frederick, Md. She will return to Baltimore on May 23d, in order to attend the Strawberry Festival of Grace Mission.

Mr. Peter Krastel has been appointed to distribute tickets for the Strawberry Festival on May 23d. Peter is great in the hustling line. Mrs. Howard G. Bishop, formerly Miss Knapp, daughter of William Knapp, founder of the Knapp Oral School of this city, was an interested visitor at the afternoon services in Grace Chapel last Sunday. Mrs. Bishop found among the congregation present two of her former pupils, Mrs. Flick and Miss Wiegand.

The interest in the proposed Banner Exposition to be held in Baltimore, in 1914, is increasing by leaps and bounds. It seems to be conceded that the west will capture the 1910 convention of the National Association of the Deaf; at least the strong bid put in by Colorado has thus far met with no opposition from any source. After that, in 1913-14, will come the opportunity of the east, and if there is to be any bidding Baltimore will surely be heard from.

The annual concert of the Maryland School for the Colored Deaf and Blind will take place in Ford's Opera House, on Friday evening, May 31st.

CECILIUS CALVERT.

The Annual Guild meeting of Grace Mission was held in Grace Parish House, Friday evening, May 17th, at which business was transacted and new officers for the ensuing year were elected. The treasurer, Mr. Geo. W. Boss, reported a balance of $58.86 in the Guild treasury. The Ladies' Aid Society has about fifty dollars, and the Brotherhood of St. Andrews has just added about sixty dollars to its treasury. The total collection is nearly two hundred dollars. The following is the list of the new officers of the Guild: Rev. O. J. Whildin, Chairman; Rev. G. F. Flick, Assistant Chairman; Miss Johanna Thies, First Vice-President; Mr. Adolph Bomhoff, Second Vice-President; Mr. Alfred E. Feast, Secretary and Treasurer.

It was decided to have an annual outing and picnic in Gwynn Oak Park on June 22d, instead of June 20th. Mr. W. W. Duval, Jr., is Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance at this picnic. It is free to all. There will be the usual prize contests for the young and old.

Rev. O. J. Whildin is down in the South. His stopping places are Norfolk, Richmond, Durham and Hampton. He will return in time to take a part in the ordination to the Priesthood of his assistant, Rev. G. F. Flick, on Trinity Sunday, May 26th, in the church of the Ascension, Washington, D. C. Rev. Messrs. Whildin and Flick will remain in the work among the Deaf in Maryland, Washington, D. C., and the South, for another year.

Miss Abbie Goff, Introductory Class, Gallaudet College, was in Baltimore, Saturday and Sunday, visiting her former teacher, Mrs. O. J. Whildin.

The School for Colored Deaf and Blind will close on the last day of this month. Miss Enga C. Anderson will remain in town with Mrs. Whildin until about July 1st. She expects to be in Washington, D. C., at the Alumni Reunion and in Norfolk, at the National Association for the Deaf Convention.

Rev. G. F. Flick was in Cincinnati, O., for a three-day visit with his folks last week. He held services in Huntington and Charleston, W. Va., on Sunday, May 12th, and stopped over in Columbus, O., the following Monday, for a short visit to his Alma Mater. On Tuesday a service was held for the deaf in Roanoke, Va.

The calendar of meetings of Grace Mission will be closed for the year, Thursday evening, May 23d, by a Strawberry Festival. Misses Stigler and Shipley have charge of it.

INDIANA.

Indiana Agency of DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, 320 Blake Street, Indianapolis, News items and subscriptions solicited.
A. H. NOHRIS, Agent.

The long-expected has happened at last. Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Cordia Jeffreys to Mr. Theodore R. Michael, both of this city. The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride's parents, on June 23d, at noon. About one hundred and fifty invitations have been issued and a special street car will be provided for the guests. The special car arrangement is made necessary because the bride's home is at the extreme north end of Meridian Street, and the regular car service is not the promptest.

Some times since we stated that Mr. Alfred Arnot was now a resident of Milwaukee, and he very kindly calls our attention to the error. Mr. Arnot is a resident at 1101 Harmon Place, Minneapolis, Minn. We admit the error and hope to avoid such an occurrence in future.

Some time since the Indianapolis News published the following story and we have since been trying to find the hero. We think we have located him in the person of Prof. August Jutt, who lives in Irvington, but please remember we can't prove it.

On a rainy afternoon, a middle aged man, of considerable avoirdupois after much struggling with a refractory umbrella succeeded in swinging on to the rear platform of a crowded Irvington car. Now it is a peculiarity of Indianapolis that the crowd on the rear platform gets particularly merry on rainy days. This particular crowd was no exception, and as soon as our fat friend succeeded in getting a foothold it let loose with all kinds of chaff. Naturally our friend paid no attention, and finally after the crowd had about tired of the sport, a friend of his touched him on the shoulder and in the sign language told him what was doing, then our friend had his laugh and the crowd looked foolish. "He laughs best who laughs last."

The Silent Hossier Baseball Team is still in the game, but like the "Indians," are getting the raw end of the luck all along the line. That they can play ball, no one doubts for a moment, but through errors at critical moments, or inability to hit when hits mean runs, they have in most cases come out just one run behind the winners. The boys are all earnest and consistent players, but are all young, and extremely light for games with the class of teams they have been meeting. True there is glory in games won, but it is not always the victories that are of most benefit. Players, who can play consistent base ball, even under constant defeat, are learning a lesson in perseverance that will be of immense value in after life. Next game at Southport, on May 25th.

Not long since, a dignified party of teachers from our school—led by Prof. U. E. Read and Miss Francis Thompson, 'tis said—betook themselves to "Wonderland," and well; reports differ—some say they skated on rollers, but others aver that quite a number of them were not equal to the occasion, and—altogether, though they had a fine time. The arnica bottle is still in demand. Lee Harris got into one mixup and came out with a bruised knee, that will keep him on crutches for a while, but it can't keep him at home on Sunday.

The Silent Five Bowling team started its season last Saturday evening, and according to tradition lost two games in a row.

Prof. Archibald gave a much enjoyed exhibition of moving pictures and stereopticon views of Mexican scenes visited by him last summer, in the institution chapel, on May 18th. Prof. Archibald and his pictures are always popular.

George Kilm, of the Columbus "champs," made his first appearance of the season here last Saturday. George is still there with the goods, and as usual did his part in scalping the "Indians." That's all right, George; no hard feelings, but if those "Indians" don't scalp you before the season closes, we'll set 'em up.

W. C. Jerrell, of Noblesville, and William Otto Bippus, of Terre Haute, were in town last Sunday.

George W. Arnot exhibited quite a limp for several days last week, as the result of getting his ankle under a piece of falling glass.

GREATER PITTSBURGH.

News items for this column many be sent to William F. Durian, 4830 Blair Street, Hazelwood, Pa.

The Treasurer of the Bazaar Committee, Mr. Ernest R. Cowley, announced he was sending the beautiful sum of $700.00 to the treasurer of the P. S. A. D. this week. Over $800.00 has been collected at the successful bazaar, but the balance met expenditures. St. Margaret's Mission has every reason to be proud of its strenuous members and those true friends of Reformed Presbyterian and Baptist Churches.

Last Friday evening the members met at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Allabough for the purpose of deciding many important matters concerning the Home at Doylestown, and the result will be announced in the next mail, as soon as the details are in good order.

NEW YORK.

News items for this column should be sent direct to the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, Station M, New York.

A few words of information in a letter or on a postal card is sufficient. We will do the rest.

PRESBYTERIAN SOCIETY NOTES.

With the advent of the Spring days there is bustle and activity on the Society's calendar. First comes the Dime Social, at the home of Miss Anna Giebelhaus, on the 23d, to which members are invited. On Memorial Day the annual outing will take place to Glen Clove, Long Island. All are counting upon a glorious time, and the ladies are preparing an appetizing luncheon that will be served picnic fashion.

The 8th of June will bring us to the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium, at 86th Street, to witness the pantomimic shadowgraph entertainment, in which Mr. William G. Jones is engaged for the leading part. The whole programme will be one of laughter with mimicry as a feature, in which Mr. Jones is known to be well versed.

On June 2d, Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston will address his former congregation at the church, and the deaf members are eager to meet him again.

Mr. Augustus A. Carroll has made a donation of five dollars to the Society, and one dollar has been received from Miss Esther H. Span-ton.

Mrs. Bella Changnon and family are now residents of the Nutmeg State, and she reports that her little girl is growing in a most satisfactory manner.

Miss Sophia F. L. Miller, who has been acting as Supervisor at the Rome School, was taken seriously ill recently, and the Doctor has ordered a long rest. She is expected in New York this week.

Miss Hilda Selter is spending the Summer months in Mount Kisco, N. Y.

A number of our members have planned their Summer outings. Some will go to the sea shore, some to the country, and one is considering a trip to the Pacific Coast.

WITH THE XAVIERS.

Peter J. Manning, box office man for the Xavier Club's entertainment committee, predicts from the way tickets for the June entertainment of the Club are being taken up, a record-breaking attendance for a club house event. Albert Wokal, Mr. Manning's assistant, claims the order for strawberries and cream will be a pretty big one.

Thomas J. Grogan, who, in face and figure is a close counterpart of the well-known, six-day-race Manager, P. T. Powers, will give a line on his theatrical aspirations, June 12th, in a one-act playlet, in which he assumes the role of "Dr. Keen."

As "Mr. Doldrums," John A. Murray, treasurer of the Xavier Club, will be seen for the first time in a Thespian way, at the Strawberry festival, June 12th.

It is expected at the next meeting of the Xavier Club Executive Committee, President Hugo Schmidt will put to an affirmative vote a motion to hold an excursion during August.

Manager Tom Grogan, of the Xavier Deaf-Mute Club's baseball team, is much encouraged by the outlook for a successful season. The schedule includes quite a number of nearby suburban dates, which will afford the local deaf an opportunity of witnessing the games. May 19th, the team journeyed to Peekskill. On Decoration Day, they play the strong Elizabeth, (N. J.) nine. Pitcher Dyer, formerly of the Fanwood A. A., is giving a good account of himself in the box. H. Fluhr, another old Fanwood player, is doing good work in the field and at the bat. Big Bill Brown continues line 'em over, when Dyer plays third. Sunderhauf, Hayden and Hamilton are old standbys, and J. J. Malloy is again to don a uniform, with hopes of duplicating his many home runs of former days.

Quite a number of the local deaf have been favored with "invites" to the Providence (R. I.) Deaf-Mute Club's Decoration Day eve ball and entertainment, of which the popular Samuel W. McCarthy is one of the committee.

Since Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Thomas committed matrimony, they were given little rest. Their cozy little home was invaded by a party of friends last Saturday evening, and an uproarously good time was enjoyed until midnight. Though very little time was spent in making preparations the surprise party was a grand success, due to the intelligent management of Mr. and Mrs. Mann. They prepared excellent chicken salad, sandwiches, cakes, etc., and filled a new laundry basket with them, and stole to the Thomas domicile, where other guests already assembled, while Mr. and Mrs. Thomas were detained at the Mann house, a block away. Mr. Mann returned, and escorted them back home. The latter were puzzled to see their kitchen filled with all sorts of food, and drink, but no body in sight, the rest of the house being in the dark. In going into the parlor, they were jumped upon by the guests. They were completely taken by surprise as the secret was well kept to the last moment. As soon as they recovered from it, they took much zest, and helped much to make it pleasant.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Benemann, and their son Herbert, Mr. and Mrs. Witmeyer, who came from Stamford, Ct., for the party, Mr. and Mrs. Ballin and their niece, Messrs. Murray Campbell, J. H. Keiser, and Miss Thad-wald.

It is expected that the festival and reception to be held by the Brooklyn Guild on Wednesday evening, May 29th, next will be largely attended, not by the deaf of Brooklyn and vicinity, but also by their hearing friends. Mrs. Henry L. Juhning has been working hard to make this occasion, not only enjoyable, but memorable, and she would be pleased to have all of her friends attend on the Eve of Decoration Day (May 29th). The reception will be over in about one hour after the affair begins, and then festival—delicious strawberries and ice-cream and plenty of fun will follow. That the prettiest young ladies of mutedom hereabouts will be present in large numbers, there is no doubt, and where combined with a reception and festival, there is so much loveliness, there indeed you will find the young men. It is expected there will be music and the best of sign making at the reception, a most enjoyable time at the festival. Don't miss these occasions as they promise to be the best the Brooklyn Guild have held in a long time, and that is saying much, as the Guild's affairs in the past have always been well managed and successful.

The May meeting of the Acorn Club was held on the 18th inst., at the residence of Mr. Emery F. Wolgamot. After some business was transacted, Mr. Ahmes as chairman of the entertainment, announced that a private picnic would be given on Sunday, June 9th, at New Dorp, S. I., for the members and their friends. Any friend desiring to join the party, can do so upon the payment of $1.50 for himself and lady. The party will start from the Battery at 9 A.M.

The management of New Dorp Hotel will furnish two large stages to convey us from the Station to the grounds where a fine dinner will await us.

The following temporary officers of the club are: President, Holton; Vice President, Cahan; Secretary, Wolgamot; Treasurer, Glostein.

The other members at the meeting were Messrs Ahmes, Osmond Loew, George Rau and McGinnis. Refreshments were served at 11:30 P. M. The meeting broke up at 1 A. M.

A party was given to Mr. and Mrs. Schwing, at their home in Elizabeth, N. J., on the 5th of May, the guests being mostly New Yorkers. Only one incident made the trip exciting, and that was when big J. C. Reilly dropped through the station platform. Those present at the party were Joseph Graham, Miss Katie Ehrlich, Eugene V. Moeslein, Ray Fenalli, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Heller, Mr. and Mrs. C. McManus, J. C. Reilly, Miss Louisa Kummer, Mrs. Cosgrove, E. Shannon.

Miss Anna Hongarter, who has been known in the deaf circles for many years, employed by Alex. McIlwraith, the largest Brooklyn bread maker, sailed for Europe, accompanied her mother, and arrived safely in Germany for recreation. They will return in July.

George I. Lounsbery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. L., went to Utica as a delegate to the Brotherhood of St. Andrew Convention last week. He took advantage of the proximity to visit the Rome Institution and was well entertained by Principal Clarke.

What promises to be the most enjoyable affair will be given by the Deaf-Mutes' Union League, on the 29th of May. Please note the advertisement on the other page.

Harry Dickerson is a lonely man these may days. His wife and child have gone to Boston to spend a couple of weeks with Mr. Dickerson's parents.

Mrs. Isabella S. Fosmire will start for Saratoga on Saturday, to remain for a week with her little daughter, who is living with her grandparents.

Mrs. William Hutton is very much improved in health by the California climate, and the report that she was failing is utterly baseless.

Mrs. Sol. D. Weil (nee Prager, of Oregon), of Buffalo, N. Y., is visiting relatives in this city.

"Within the Suburban Limits."

OHIO.

Red Letter Days at the Ohio Institution.

THE JAMESTOWN EXHIBIT

News of the Week.

[News items for this column may be sent to our Ohio News Bureau, care of S. A. B. Greener, 993 Franklin Ave., Columbus, O.]

May 18, 1907—Wednesday and Thursday were red letter days for the class of '07 of the Ohio School for the Deaf. In the evening of the former, Superintendent and Mrs. Jones tendered a reception to the class, fourteen in number, which was attended by the trustees, officers and teachers of the institution besides some invited guests. The floor rotunda was decorated with a large palm in the center surrounded with potted palms. The library, where the receiving was done, also looked pleasing with its numerous potted plants. In the receiving line were Mrs. Governor Harris, the trustees with their wives, Mrs. Jones, Rev. Mr. Montgomery and wife, and the members of the class, Superintendent Jones doing the introduction. After this an adjournment was made to the dining room, where an appetizing repast was served, after which Superintendent Jones spoke of the occasion paying a compliment to the class, and then introduced Hon. Wm. Walton, who spoke on "Opportunity." He hoped the members of the class when they left the school would grasp every favorable opportunity to help themselves and thus bring lustre to their Alma Mater, which had made it possible by the education she had given them, to enter fields for competition in the various arts of employment.

Thursday evening the commencement exercises were held. The members of the class had seats upon the stage forming a semi-circle.

The figures '07 in red electric globes just under the motto of the Institution, which overtops the middle of the proscenium added to the beauty of the scene. The class motto, "Truth conquers all things," was displayed. There were potted plants also about the front stage. Each member carried a bunch of carnations, the ladies red, a pleasing contrast to their white gowns, the young men white. After the invocation by Rev. Mr. Montgomery in place of Rev. A. E. Craig, who arrived later, Superintendent Jones made a brief address in regard to the school course, instancing how rapidly incidents pass. There were two Grovers in the class, one of them Grover Cleveland, showing they had been named after the President elected in 1884. Of the class presented, one of the largest, the institution would have no cause to be ashamed of it. In moral character and educational attainment, it is strong.

John S. Fryfogle delivered the salutatory with an oration, "The Republic of Cuba." The valedictory was given by Miss Susan Elizabeth Boettner, with an oration "Oldest White Race of Record." These were the only pieces delivered by members of the class.

Hon. Frank Tyler, President of the Board of Trustees, in a few words presented the diplomas.

The full program was: Invocation..... Rev. Mr. Montgomery Salutatory, with oration, "The Republic of Cuba,"..... John Perry Fryfogle Oration, "The Jamestown Tercentenary Exposition," George Hermann Kimmich Essay, "The Army of Chinese Students Abroad,"..... Rosa Elizabeth Zilch Essay, "The New State of Oklahoma,"..... Christine Amy Miller Essay, "The Stranger at Our Gates,"..... Margaret Scott Mabel Sampson Essay, "The Walls Must be Weathered before They Grow the Ivy,"..... Frances Anna Wardell Oration, "The Valedictory,"..... "Oldest White Race of Record,"..... Susan Elizabeth Boettner Annual Address, "Shall We Write In-ah-bod,"..... Dr. C. L. VanCleve Presentation of Diplomas..... Hon. Frank Tyler Benediction..... Rev. A. E. Craig, D. D.

The Graduating members of the Intermediate School are:—Grace Lucy Evans, Margaret Caroline Garrison, Goldie Hope Warner, Verna Gay Warner, Martha Turvey, William Grover Wingate, Grover Cleveland Burcham.

The class motto is "Truth Conquers all things," and the colors are white and skyblue. Mr. Leon Odebrecht did the interpreting during the exercises.

The principal address of the evening by Dr. C. S. VanCleve, Superintendent of the Mansfield Schools, was most forcefully presented. His subject was "Shall we write Inhabod?" He first spoke of the Biblical history of the word, and then asked if it should be written across the doors of our public school. He spoke of the low morals prevailing among the rich, of graft and dishonesty in public life, which he claimed was due to want of moral training inculcated into pupils a generation ago. In the public schools truth, the real truth, should be taught, honesty of the highest type that having regard for one person to another; industry so that every man and woman will understand the world does not owe him or her a living, and that by being idle only makes more and harder work for others.

After the benediction friends crowded upon the stage, and offered members of the class congratulations and well wishes. As usual, several of the members were watched, and others received rings, and other presents from parents or friends. After the exercises, there was a dance in the girls' recreation hall until eleven o'clock.

The following were here to attend the Commencement exercises: Mrs. Mary Miller, of Lima, Miss Mabel Clementson, of Cleveland; Miss Blanche Cappecock, of Bradford; Miss Elma Feters, of West Milton; Miss Ida Millard and sister, of Bridgeport, Messrs Ray Bigaman, of Cincinnati; John Bollener and G. W. Sine, of Steubenville; William Case, of Bellaire. All stayed over till the next day.

We accidentally ran against James W. Barnes, of Waverly, in Bryce's Store, Tuesday afternoon. He had laid in a few odds and ends to help make him look swell at the Jamestown Exposition, for which place he was to start that evening for a two weeks' stay. He has been assisting his brother at farm work, and may attend the reunion.

During the winter we stated that the school moved have an exhibit at the Jamestown Centennial. The past week the exhibit was placed in the B. hall of the school building and has attracted a great deal of attention. A reporter of the State Journal was out the other day and we append his description of it. There is one piece not spoken of, for it was not in place at the time. This is a box containing electrical appliances for wireless telegraphy and the card attached to it has this:—

"This induction coil was made by K. B. Ayers, a pupil here, deeply interested in electricity, the coil furnishes sparks of eight inches long for the Heryan waves in the wireless telegraphy. P. S. We cannot have spark of eight inches long here on account of poor fluid intemper. A new one is in course of construction. The receiving instruments are in construction now."

In the first place, there is a complete showing of the boot and shoe department the tailor's department and the dressmaking department. There is work exhibited which will compare with the finest that skilled labor can produce in the state. There are waists, pantalons, shoes and tailor work, all perfect.

Another feature of the exhibit is the fine series of photographs, showing the classes at work, the buildings, the interiors, the gymnasium classes and views of the ground.

WORK OF THE CLASSES.

Another phase takes up the work of the classes from the youngest to the high school grades, and as the sets of views and the actual work are displayed on revolving racks, it is easy to follow the development of the pupil to the final graduation. Among the most interesting of the exhibits are those from two pupils who are deaf, dumb and blind. Both these pupils went to the institution, handicapped to the extreme. Both of them are sending to the Jamestown exhibition samples of basket work (one in two colors) that would tax an expert who had all his faculties. John Porter Riley, aged 18, colored, of Akron, is one of the basket makers, and Leslie Oren of Wilmington, Clinton County, is the other. This is their first attempt at this kind of work.

A complete set of the work done by the pupils, from the first grade up, is shown serialim. The first year pupils have some color work, illustrating simple problems. For instance, the problem is given, "One hand and three hands make how many hands?" The pupil draws one hand, then three, and finally draws the total. The work is far above the average. This one grade is followed through with all the studies, so that one can, by turning over the actual papers, see just what the pupils have done in that one year.

The second year shows still another step in the educational advancement. For instance a letter written by Dallas Hooper, of Chillicothe, composed by herself, shows that the child has a better idea of correspondence than nine tenths of the ordinary letter writers. This year also shows the advancement in arithmetic and in pencil drawing.

THIRD YEAR ADVANCEMENT.

The third year brings out the imaginative faculties, and original stories are shown for the benefit of the visitor. These are cleverly done. In the fourth year the story proposition, as well as the more advanced studies are carried out. Some of these stories, taken from pictures furnished the pupil, and illustrated by drawing in line, and in color, are excellent.

So it goes up from the first to the tenth grade and then into the high school work. There are pen and ink sketches, line drawings, water color work and the like, that are among the best efforts of the pupils. One story written by Jay Brown of Cleveland and illustrated by Rheinland Wunderland of Columbus, is among the best of the exhibits of the sixth grade.

One of the prettiest of the many pretty things that the pupils will send to Jamestown is the calendar Margaret Stegman of this city has made. The work is in color, and without suggestion. It begins with January with sleds and other winter trimmings, and runs the gamut of the months, each of which has an appropriate drawing. All the work is of a superior merit.

Another work of art is a map of the country traversed by the N. & W. railway, from this city to the scene of the "expo." That ought to be worth a pass and expenses to the student who did it. In fact some of the map work is wonderful, and the color and proportions are almost perfect.

GOOD SIGN PAINTING.

The display of sign painting, and sign work is also fine. Then there is an exhibition of cabinet and carpenter work. The cases that shelter the dollies and other needle work, the desk of authority, the chairs, the revolving exhibition pieces, and all the wood work that is necessary to display the exhibit of probably 15,000 pieces were made by the pupils of the institution.

Not the least of the interesting things that the institution will send to Jamestown will be the samples of paper-cutting done by little Catherine Davidson of Wellsville. She is a nervous child and is away back in her studies. She is a wonder with the scissors, and without any drawings on paper, can take an ordinary pair of scissors and a half sheet of note paper and cut out figures of elks, with horns complete: "Teddy bears," men, girls with curls, and other things that make her a constant source of wonder to her teacher.

Women will be interested in the work of the girls in the sewing and embroidery department. One set of 21 dollies is a "dream," and if the work was to be paid for it would mean the price of several spring hats.

The display of the illustrating and printing part of the great institution, the bakery and other departments, is such that the State can well feel proud of them.

The trustees of the Institution, at their meeting on the 16th inst., granted a vacation for the next holidays from December 21st to January. This is to be only an experiment, and the conditions are that only those children whose parents will call for them, where small, furnish transportation to the older ones, and they must agree to have them back at school promptly on the day designated. It is also hoped that where children are taken home the utmost precaution will be taken prevent bringing back contagious diseases. No baggage will be sent along with those going home. School work will continue for those remaining.

Dr. Patterson and Mr. Leon Odebrecht went over to Springfield, Saturday forenoon, to attend the funeral of Mr. Milton Beam, and the latter to interpret the services. The pall bearers were Messrs. J. F. Reinhardt, C. H. Wilson, Harry A. Alexander, Frank Stokes, Gilbert O. Pitzer and Howard Barnes.

Mr. Leon Odebrecht left this morning for Wheeling, where, before the Wheeling Guild, he will give his lecture on Josephine.

Mr. Clifford Rose spent Saturday and Sunday with his mother in Granville. His sister is still quite feeble. His mother was matron of the Institution for many years, and although over threescore and ten years, she is still quite strong.

Rev. George Flick was mingling with Institution friends, Monday afternoon, having come up from Cincinnati, where he had spent several days with his mother. He left in the evening for Roanoke, Va., where he was to hold a service the next day. His friends were glad to hear of his successful examination for priest's orders, and that he is to serve for another year in his present district.

The game between the Independents and London High School last Saturday, was a one-sided affair, the score being in favor of the Independents, 27 to 7. It was no doubt due to the injury of the London's pitcher in the first inning. Thursday afternoon, the Independents copped with the Columbus High School Club, and were thrown 9 to 1, all on account of errors and poor playing behind the bat. The regular catcher, W. Arrus, having been called home on account of a death in the family. They were to play a return game with Groveport Club this afternoon, and a large party was to go down early this morning, as rooters, and also form an acquaintance with the funny tribe of the Creek, but rain all forenoon put a quietus to the latter, and perhaps also to the game.

Mr. Ohlemacher, Gymnasium instructor, was walking pretty lively and smiling unusually this morning. Reason: He became a papa of a bouncing boy in the wee small hours of the day.

Mr. George W. Shade was a visitor at the Institution Sunday. He is now employed as a farm hand up near the storage dam.

PHILADELPHIA.

Charles Hunter Cooley Drowned.

ON THE SCHUYLKILL RIVER.

The News of the Week.

[News items for this column should be sent to James S. Reider, 1538 North Dover Street, Philadelphia, Pa.]

May 20, 1907.—All the city papers contained accounts of the following case of drowning last week, ours being from the Philadelphia Bulletin:

Capsize from a working boat and unable to summon help, Charles Hunter Cooley, a deaf mute, and a member of the Crescent Boat Club was drowned in the Schuylkill River last evening off Fountain Green.

The overturning of the boat—a common occurrence along the river—was witnessed by dozens of persons along the shore, and seeing that the man was apparently swimming to safety, no attempt was made to go to his assistance.

Paul Kirk, Captain of the Crescent Club, had followed Cooley up the river in a racing shell. Seeing the man's predicament, Kirk rowed to his assistance. He succeeded in having Cooley catch hold of his shell and proceeded with difficulty to balance the craft and row at the same time. He had almost reached the shore when Cooley released his grasp and sank. It is supposed he was attacked by cramps.

Cooley was but recently elected to membership in the club, and was in training for the June regatta of the Schuylkill Navy. The bottom of the river is a treacherous mud hole at Fountain Green, owing to the filling in of great quantities of silt to deepen the river along the shore, and it is thought Cooley was caught in the mud when he sank.

The Park guards were informed of the tragedy and grappled for the body, which was secured several hours later and removed to Sedgeley Guard House, where it was later identified by club members. The drowned man was twenty-four years old and lived at 2128 Arch Street. He was a printer by trade, and had no relatives in this city. The body will be shipped to the home of his mother, in Marshall, Texas.

Another paper states that Cooley was training for the June regatta of the Schuylkill Navy. When taken from the river there were no marks of identification as the body was attired only in rowing trunks and jersey, but he was identified by members of the club. The accident occurred shortly before or about eight o'clock on the evening of May 14th. The body was shipped to the home of his mother in Marshall, Texas.

It appears that the dead oarsman was a journeyman printer, and had worked in several cities, coming here from New York City some time last March. A New York friend of his describes him thus: "A stalwart, handsome and clever young Southerner, full of life and vigor, Cooley made friends everywhere."

The following was sent from Lancaster, Pa.:

The many friends of James W. Wilson will be sorry to learn about his death. He died on Tuesday morning, May 14th, at his home in Lancaster. Death was due to a complication of diseases. He had been in failing health for two and a half years, but had been confined to bed only since the Sunday preceding his death. He was unusually bright, and had attended the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf and Dumb for nine years. He had been employed at the silk mills, and lastly at the Champion Blower and Forge Co.'s plant for two years.

The funeral took place on the following Thursday afternoon, Rev. F. C. Smelan and a hearing minister conducting the service simultaneously. The pall-bearers were deaf-mutes. There were a number of floral tributes from deaf friends and fellow employees of the deceased.

On the morning of May 16th, Harry B. Brandt, of this city, died after an illness of several weeks. His death was rather unexpected, although his illness seemed serious at times. Deceased was a graduate of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, and would be fifty years old on June 19th, if he lived. He was above the average in intelligence, and could talk and read the lips with ease. We never saw him use a pad and pencil to carry on a conversation, though there may have been exceptions of which we have not heard.

Mr. Brandt was well known in this city, but he rarely attended the meetings of the deaf. He was perhaps better known for the character that he was known to be, having been the single one in this State, we believe. What we mean is that he was an expert with the needle in embroidery, knitting, crocheting and sewing, and he was handy in all branches of household work, including cooking and baking. But he was never known to do much work outside of his own home, where he was devoted to his mother and assisted her until his death. At times he was employed at candy-making, but he gave most of his time to needlework, which he found more profitable.

By his death, his mother is left alone of the family.

A funeral service was held at his late home, 1536 Vine Street, on Sunday evening, May 19th. The Rev. C. O. Dantzer officiated. A good many deaf viewed the remains, which early this Monday morning were taken to Trenton, N. J., and buried there. Most of the relatives live there.

Sunday evening, May 18th, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Stumpf celebrated their Tin Wedding anniversary by a reception at their home, 1903 E. Wishart Street, Kensington. It was made a very happy occasion for both the couple and the guests. The former received a shower of congratulations and many handsome and useful presents, while the latter were treated to delicious refreshments and spent a very enjoyable social time.

The following is a list of some of the guests present:

Mr. and Mrs. C. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Lewis, Mrs. C. O. Dantzer, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Lipsett and son, Mr. Harry Gunkel, Miss Emily Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ormrod, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wisler, Miss Lizzie Stockton, Mr. H. Blankensee, Mrs. Mary Mergel and sons, Miss Emily Mergel, Mr. and Mrs. McBain, Mrs. Weller, Mrs. Humphrey and sons, Miss Cora Fleming, Mrs. M. Aleer, Mrs. J. Miller and sons, Misses L. Fleming, B. Fleming, Sadie McMurtrie and Ella McAleer.

Since our last writing additional collections have been made for All Souls' Fair Fund in aid of the Home for Aged and Infirm Deaf, and the total amount is now nearly eight hundred dollars ($800.) Some more is to be collected.

J. S. Reider read service at St. Andrew's (P. E.) Church, Wilmington, Del., on Sunday evening, May 19th, while Rev. Mr. Dantzer officiated at the Brandt funeral service at home. Mr. H. J. Haight, of New York and Philadelphia, went with Mr. Reider to the Delaware Capital as company.

H. E. Stevens and friends spent Sunday in Atlantic City.

The Board of Managers of the P. S. A. D. will hold a special meeting at Mr. Reider's house next Saturday evening, May 25th, to take steps towards wiping out the remaining mortgage on the Home property.

NEW ENGLAND.

[Any New England news or business for the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL may be sent to Geo. C. Sawyer, 93 W. Seldon St., Mattapan, Mass.]

Miss Bockee, principal of Beverly School for the Deaf, is now in a sanitarium at Pittsfield, Mass., after having been treated for an abscess in her ear at a hospital. Owing to her nervous disposition, and many duties in which she overworked herself, her friends fear she will never be herself again. Even if she recovers at all, she may not return to her duties at the school.

Mr. A. F. Osgood, of Hudson, formerly of Natick, will be an addition to the Home by June 1st.

Propos of the recent Shaw case. Mr. J. C. Kerrison, an editorial writer of the Boston Post, remarked to Mr. H. C. White in the court, that if the suit was decided against Mr. Shaw, he believed all the clergymen would refuse to unite any deaf-mute couples in marriage. What a narrow escape for our unmarried brethren and sisters. They should rise up and call Mr. White blessed for saving them from single-blessedness?

The many entertainments to be held at the surrounding towns of Boston on May 29th, will have no effect on the entertainment in aid of the New England Home for Aged Deaf Mutes at Tremont Temple, May 29th, than a drop of water does on a duck, as the management has been assured of a big crowd from far and near to help the worthy cause, and moreover the programme is very attractive and will be interesting to the hearing people as well as the deaf.

Mrs. M. J. O'Neil, of Beverly, visited her friend, Mrs. Ryan, at the latter's home in Lynn, and was detained there by her sudden illness for a week recently.

The Culver Brothers and Mr. Murray, all or Winchendon, will make a flying visit down this way, and will stop at the benefit entertainment and also the Lynn party.

Joe Donnelly, who has been connected with the Reporter of Woonsocket, R. I., for many years, was obliged to leave his post and is now travelling for his health. He has just returned from an enjoyable trip to Jamestown Exposition.

Mr. W. H. Goldsmith's help at the Riverside Press has been increased by many more girls.

ACCOMMODATIONS.

Arrangements have been made with the authorities of the Institution to accommodate those proposing to attend the Convention.

Board per full day - - - - - $1.00
Meals - - - - - .25

Members expecting to attend the meeting should apply for a room at the Institution. They should let the Secretary know by postal card.

If you are not already a member of the Pennsylvania Society for the Advancement of the Deaf, send in your subscription without delay, to the Treasurer, George T. Sanders, 7418 Boyer Street, Mt. Airy, Philadelphia. Annual dues, one dollar for men and fifty cents for women. Blank form of Application for Membership in the Society can be obtained by addressing the Secretary.

RAILROAD RATES.

The several Railroad lines in the State of Pennsylvania have lately considered the question of reduced fares and amended their previous authorization (fares are one third for the round trip) as follows:

TWO CENTS PER MILE IN EACH DIRECTION from Trunk Line points in Pennsylvania, (East of and including Erie, Oil City, and Pittsburgh) on card orders; tickets to be sold to Mt. Airy, Allen Lane, or Pittsburgh, and good, going, August 26th, to September 2d, returning to September 4th, inclusive.

The said orders will be distributed on application to the Chairman, R. M. Ziegler, 205 W. Mt. Pleasant Avenue, Mt. Airy, Pa. They must be presented to the Ticket Agents at starting points to secure tickets at the reduced fares, and will be honored by the Agents of any of the lines over which the reduction applies.

The Committee on Arrangements, consisting of R. M. Ziegler, Chairman, Thomas Breen, E. D. Wilson, G. T. Sanders and R. M. Barker, will do the best it can to make this occasion one of pleasure for all.

Any desired information may be obtained by addressing the Secretary.

The Gallaudet Memorial.

It is proposed to erect a memorial to the late Rev. Thomas Gallaudet, D.D., by the erection of a Parish Building for St. Ann's Church for Deaf-Mutes. The present Church is situated on 148th Street, just west of Amsterdam Avenue, and is built some twenty-five feet back from the line of the street to permit the erection of such a building as above indicated, which will form a facade to the church edifice and be a center of religious and social life amongst the silent peoples. Dr. Gallaudet hoped during his lifetime to see the erection of this building, which would have completed the church with which his name has always been associated. This was not permitted, and it is suggested as a most fitting memorial to him that this work be now undertaken. St. Ann's Church is used wholly for the deaf mutes.

The new building will occupy a plot of ground about forty-five feet along the street front and twenty-five feet in depth. It will be three stories in height, with a basement, and will be used for the social, religious and industrial needs of the deaf-mutes of New York. The amount required for "The Gallaudet Memorial Parish Building" will be about $30,000, and the building itself, in its position and purpose, will form a conspicuous monument to him whose life was devoted to the silent peoples. They themselves heartily endorse the memorial.
